Or does it have plumes of fabric on the shoulders or lace around the neck. All of these are important factors when it comes to deciding whether you want to wear your hair up or leave it down. It is quite possible invisible irritants inside the home may be causing health problems. Most of us can only relate air pollution with overcrowded highways and factories with smoke pluming from tall towers. But the air you breathe inside your home may be much dirtier than the air found in the so-called great outdoors. According to the EPA, indoor air may be up to five times dirtier than the "fresh" air found outside. Any number of minuscule things may be found in the air of a typical home from dust to cigarette smoke.

These irritants can contribute to certain health problems such as a sore throat, stuffy nose, asthma and even stroke and heart disease. An air purifier in the home can help alleviate some of these irritants. Many people ask how to start a home yoga practice so here is some information to get you going.
